

Roxanne is:
the invisible of the visual a witness to the marriage of vanity and fame an eye for fashionable observers a total reporter one who over-exposes her subjects while remaining under-exposed a sorcerer casting spells on collections a woman's eye at the view-finder a visual confidant to whom all is revealed one who dreads nothing more than a blank film fragility that can break down doors a person with focus one who can lend a hand and is often slapped in the face fashion's historian the young mother of an adult daughter one whose absence is felt, whose presence merely sensed one who knows the lie of the land a friend to the great a friend to all, yet known to few.

Karl Lagerfeld